The 10 Best Tim Hortons Iced Coffee Drinks

1. Iced Cappuccino

If you're a routine visitor to Tim Hortons then you may have heard people talk about the Iced Capp. For those of us who aren't up on the proper lingo, that's an Iced Cappuccino. This cool iced beverage is a great way of perking yourself up on a hot day. The Iced Cappuccino is made using Tim Hortons' signature coffee base then adding cream. For those who want fewer calories, you can substitute the cream for 2% milk. If you don't mind a bit of sweetness they even offer an Iced Cappuccino Supreme that features whipped cream and a bit of chocolate drizzle to make things even more amazing.

2. Iced Capp with Chocolate Milk

While we're on the subject of the Iced Cappuccino, you can't talk about the best Tim Hortons iced coffee drinks without mentioning the Iced Capp with Chocolate Milk. For fans of chocolate, this is the perfect go-to. You'll notice that the chocolate milk makes the drink richer and even lightens it slightly. Just like with the original Iced Cappuccino, you can ask for a supreme and get whipped cream and chocolate drizzle.

3. Iced French Vanilla Coffee

Tim Hortons' French Vanilla Coffee has been one of Canada's favorite drinks for quite some time. Now, lovers of iced coffee beverages can experience the greatness. According to fans of this drink, both the hot and cold versions, a Tim Hortons French Vanilla coffee has the perfect blend of vanilla and coffee. Make sure to give it a try when you're looking for an iced coffee drink to love.

4. Iced Coffee

It may sound simple enough but Tim Hortons Iced Coffee is easily one of the most popular iced drinks on the menu. Most stores make this beverage by using Tim Hortons' signature premium blend and pouring it over ice. If you're a fan of their coffee, you'll love it. If you're new to the chain and feel this drink isn't sweet enough, they have several flavors you can add to shake things up.

5. Iced Americano

If you want things straightforward and on the cool side, the Iced Americano may be your safest bet. This tasty drink is made using an espresso shot that is topped with cold water. Add a little ice afterward and you have an unsweetened, iced coffee beverage that fans of simple coffee will love.

6. Iced Latte

Many people feel that an Iced Latte at Tim Hortons is the same as the store's Iced Coffee. If that's w fu t ☐ c e tu fu

The Amount of Caffeine in Tim Hortons' Most Popular Drinks

Many people rely on caffeine to get them through the day (or night). Other people try to avoid caffeine as much as possible for health or personal reasons. No matter which one of those options you are, there is a Tim Hortons drink suited perfectly to your needs. Here is a list of the caffeine in Tim Hortons' most popular drinks.

1. Latte

Surprisingly, a latte from Tim Hortons will give you the most caffeine compared to any other drink. The fact that lattes are only available as a medium makes this drink rank higher than the other items, but the caffeine content is actually the same as the amount in the original roast coffee (with certain flavours). Depending on which flavour you choose, a Tim Hortons latte can contain between 205mg-215mg of caffeine.

2. Original Roast Coffee

Tim Hortons' original roast coffee is the winner when it comes to the highest amount of caffeine in the cheapest drink (an especially helpful thing for college students to know). A small will give you 140mg of caffeine (an espresso shot has 45mg on average), perfect for an early morning boost or to keep you going during a long study session in the library.

3. Dark Roast Coffee

The dark roast comes in second with slightly less caffeine than the original. A small dark roast coffee contains 130mg of caffeine. So whether you prefer original or dark roast, you will be getting a similar amount of caffeine no matter which you pick.

4. Café Mocha

Amy Cho

A mocha from Tim Hortons still has a good amount of caffeine at 90mg in a small. This drink is perfect for someone who wants some caffeine but not too much and enjoys the chocolate flavour in their coffee.

5. Iced Capp

The iced cappuccino from Tim Hortons is arguably their most popular drink (after the double-double, of course). This drink has 90mg of caffeine in a small, but the medium has less caffeine than what is present in a medium mocha. This is because of the ice that this drink contains.

6. Iced Coffee

This drink is basically an original brewed coffee but with more milk and added ice, so it makes sense for it to have much less caffeine. A small contains 60mg of caffeine, so it's a good drink to have later in the day when you need just a little caffeine boost.

7. Brewed Tea

It's pretty obvious that the caffeine content in brewed tea depends on the type of tea you are having. Herbal teas don't contain any at all, while orange pekoe, English breakfast, earl grey, and chai teas have 50mg in a small. Tim Hortons also has the option to have decaffeinated orange pekoe, which contains 6mg of caffeine in a small, while green tea has 25mg.

Knowing the caffeine content of different Tim Hortons drinks can come in very handy in certain situations if you're a regular at this historically Canadian coffee shop. Use this list to help you decide what to drink depending on your caffeine needs.

Baby's First Road Trip

Noah was born on a hot, humid, rainy day at the end of July in 2008. It was the happiest day of our lives! After a difficult pregnancy that included gestational diabetes, I couldn't wait to bring our little boy home and introduce him to the world. After 18 hours of labour, I was drained and exhausted but my midwife said that we were safe to go home only a few hours after Noah's birth. My first question was, "Can I please stop for an Ice Capp on the way home?" The Gestational Diabetes had put me on an extremely strict diet for the past 12 weeks and the heat of the summer had had me craving Iced Capp for what seemed like forever! The midwife looked at me and said, "You certainly deserve it - It's been a long day!" So, we left the hospital and began Noah's first road trip ever. My husband had never driven so cautiously, especially as he pulled into the drive thru at Tim Horton's and ordered up my special treat! What a reward! He exclaimed, "Noah, they'll be many more road trips like this one - Your Mommy loves her Timmys!" A half hour later, finally home and tucked into bed, I enjoyed my Iced Capp and knew I would never forget Noah's first trip to Tim Horton's... before he even made it home for the very first time.
