Four More Shots Please![1] is an Indian comedy-drama streaming television series on Amazon Prime Video[2] directed by Anu Menon and Nupur Asthana.[3] The series follows the story of four unapologetically flawed women (two in their 30s and two in their early 20s) as they live, love, make mistakes and discover what really makes them tick through friendship and shots of tequila in millennial Mumbai. The series is Amazon Prime Video's first all-women-protagonists Indian original starring Sayani Gupta, Bani J, Kirti Kulhari, and Maanvi Gargoo. Reviewers have referred to the show as a "desi version of Sex and The City." [4] The first season was one of top three most-watched Amazon Original Series from India in 2019, and season two was called "the most-watched Indian show on the platform" in May 2020.[5] Shortly after season two was released, Amazon announced that season three was in the works.[6] Season 3 premiered on October 21, 2022.

Our Fav 5 Looks From Four More Shots Please 2, Re-Created On A Budget

Say what you will about the show, you can't deny the countless number of eyeballs that Four More Shots Please managed to grab cross the nation. Whether it's because of the refreshing portrayal of topics like body shaming, sexism at the workplace and other feminist issues, or the friendship goals set by the Four More Shots Please cast, or even the high fashion high-octane glamour, the recently launched season 2 of this crowd-favourite Prime original has garnered immense popularity, and gotten on a lot of hearts and perhaps, a few nerves.

We've all had our reasons for binging through all the episodes of Four More Shots Please season 2 in one sitting, but for me personally it was the fashion and style quotient of the show that stood out as the cherry on top of the cake. Each of the four diverse lead ladies in the show flaunted a unique individual style, with the overall fashion spectrum ranging from corporate chic to sporty glamour. What further added to the allure was the appeal of each distinct style + personality combo, with me fawning over Anjana's boss girl power suits in stunning pastel shades during one scene, and raving about Umang's statement activewear while watching another.

I could ramble on about my recently formulated wardrobe goals after finishing the show, at least for a couple of more paras. But sparing you the pain, let's dive headfirst into the clear winners of the Four More Shots Please fashion game. And while we are it, let's also talk about how you can recreate these outfits on a budget. You know, for some post-lockdown fashion inspiration.

And on that note, here are our 5 absolute favourite picks from the Four More Shots Please Season 2 cast wardrobe.

1. Anjana's Bubblegum Pink Power Suit

There are a number of adjectives we can pick to describe Anjana Menon from Four More Shots Please, but a true-blue fashion diva is the one we'll go with for now. This solid coloured power suit, featuring a double-breasted blazer, does complete justice to the portrayal of Anjana's invincible ambition and professionalism, while the bubble gum pink colour highlights her tendency to make effortless statements with her fashion choices. Total girl crush moment.

2. Sidhi's Off Shoulder Floral Top & Front Button A-Line Skirt Combo

All the characters in Four More Shots Please have admirable qualities, but it's Siddhi Piddi's journey from a sheltered daughter to an empowered woman that we found the most liberating to watch. Siddhi wears this chic floral outfit on the day of her first official performance as a stand-up artist, and we can't help but cheer her on. The loose silhouette of the outfit coupled with the classy olive front button A-line skirt and the bold floral print up top, work brilliantly together to assert Siddhi's girl-next-door vibe, along with reiterating that there's way more to her than just what meets the eye.

Total Cost: INR 1800 - 2,200

3. Damini's Printed Nightsuit As Day-Suit Look

Damini as a character in Four More Shots Please is a passionate, driven and fearless 21st-century woman, who's in deep touch with both her roots and ideals. And Damini's fashion sense is entirely congruent with her fierce personality. From bodycon dresses with experimental cuts, to striped playsuit sets, Damini's wardrobe is a thing of envy. But this block-printed blazer and relaxed fit trouser combo, stole the show hands-down. This outfit represents the resurgence of the Fashion Week trend of donning night suits as day suits, in the high street fashion scenario, along with the appeal of an ethnic print mixed in with a boho-formal look.

4. Umang's Sporty Glam Neon On Neon Look

Let's get real. When you look like Bani J, you can wear a potato sack and make it seem like the latest runway trend. But Umang's sporty glam looks in Four More Shots Please carried an irresistible appeal of their own. We particularly loved the neon on neon play in this look that perfectly straddles the line between casual and vogue. The sheer neon green front-zip jacket, thrown together with a neon green sports bralet and the white high waisted running shorts, together made for one of Umang's most effortlessly fashionable statement looks.

5. Kavya's Ethnic-Western Fusion Look

Drifting away a bit from our four favourite lead ladies, here's a special mention on this list of Four More Shots best style moments. With most fashion-obsessed eyes fixated on the main girl gang, Kavya's indo-western fusion looks went under-appreciated. But for those of us with a love for throwing multi-fashion-category elements together and creating unique, quirky looks, Kavya stood out as the perfect ethnic-boho style icon. Especially with the Bindi and junk silver jewellery details.

Recreate On A Budget

Get The Look From Shein

Get The Look From Shein

Your best source for junk silver jewellery is your local flea market, and for the bindi, your mum's dressing drawer.

Our loudest thought when the show ended? Four more looks, please!
