Miley Cyrus sports a diaper in self-directed video for BB Talk single

Miley Cyrus is known for her outlandish styles and costumes.

But it seems the 23-year-old may have outdone herself as she donned a diaper and bonnet to look like a baby for the new music video for her single BB Talk.

The curious video, which airs the star's grievances with an ex - including his use of baby talk - debuted on MTV on Friday.

Getting in touch with her inner child: Miley Cyrus donned a diaper and bonnet as she dressed like a baby for the music video for her latest single BB Talk

The wild video was directed by Miley herself, along with Diamond Martel, and featured the star wearing a lacy, white nightgown over what looked to be a diaper.

She coupled that with a large, purple bonnet over blonde bangs and ringlet curls as she could be seen playing with her toes and rolling around on the ground in the video, acting like a baby.

In another scene the former Disney Channel starlet could be seen wearing the blonde tresses in curled pigtails, with large white bow embellishments.

Multi-talented: The hitmaker both starred in and directed the curious video

Flexible: While sporting a diaper and lacy, white nightgown Miley could be seen rolling around on the ground in front of the pink backdrop

Childlike: The star also wore her blonde tresses in pigtails with white bows, while sporting a form-fitting white leotard and laying in a large crib

Miley dons a form-fitting white leotard in these scenes, as she continues to sing BB Talk from inside a large crib with a planetary mobile.

As the tempo in the song picks up Miley can be seen dancing - with three back-up dancers - in inflated baby costumes, equipped with bibs, diapers, caps, and passifiers.

She also got sudsy as she lay covered in bubbles in the bath while playing with a giant, inflated ducky during another scene.

Showing off her moves: Never one to disappoint, Miley's looks continued to get stranger in the video, as she later donned an inflatable baby costume, complete with a diaper, bonnet, and bib reading: 'cry baby'

Splish splash: She also sings her emotions while taking a bubble bath with a giant inflatable duck

Annoyed: The star showed off a ton of attitude as she sang about an ex that irritated her by being too 'goo-goo' and using baby talk

New 'do? Miley hid her blonde locks with an abundance of bubbles as she sang from a small bathtub

Bubbles covered the star's modesty - as well as her blonde tresses - as she could be seen kicking her legs in the air while singing and dancing along to her tune.

She showed off a lot of attitude in the video, pouting and crossing her arms as she sang about complaints such as her ex being too 'goo-goo,' commenting: 'as if I'm not f***ing awkward enough.'

And then the daring star dialed up the weirdness as she was pictured singing from inside a large, cracked eggshell and sucking on a comically large bottle.

Not impressed: The former Disney Channel star looked particularly upset as she sang about the doomed relationship from inside of an eggshell

Thirsty? She had a blast with over-sized props in the quirky video, and was seen writhing around on the ground with a giant bottle

Flaunting her pins: The performer let herself go wild as she rolled around on the ground in the baby costume

Cozy: She looked comfortable in a long-sleeved, purple onesie in another clip

She writhed around on the floor with the bottle, also showing off her flexibility as she tumbled in front of the pink background.

Later she sported a long-sleeved, purple onesie while her long, blonde locks were styled in big curls, with a section pulled back into a ponytail and embellished with a pink bow.

She sat on top of a large, dog stuffed animal as she sang about baby talk 'creeping me out.'

Grumpy: Miley showed off an angry face as the camera flipped upside down while panning to her in her white dress

Not hungry: The star later threw a tantrum in a baby pink dress, hurling her food at the camera as she sat in a highchair

Falling apart: All of her emotions seemed to come to a head at the end of the video

Not having it: The star could be seen crying and throwing a tantrum in each of her outlandish scenes

Miley then showed off a big grin as she cuddled the stuffed animal, after rolling around on the ground while holding it.

She really got into character as she donned a light pink dress with a pale yellow and blue collar, as she sported pigtails and a coordinating pink headband.

While in the brightly colored ensemble she could be seen throwing a tantrum while sitting in a highchair, as another woman - with a deeply plunging dress - fed her.

Here come the tears: A collage of tears and screams closed out the video, before the singer was seen crawling away

That's not for babies! Miley could be seen smoking while lounging in her purple onesie

That's all, folks! The star glanced back for a second as she crawled away at the close of her video

Behind the scenes: The BB Talk singer shared this snap on Instagram ahead of the video's debut on MTV on Friday

The woman then playfully scolded Miley as she proceeded to pelt the camera with her food instead of eating it.

The video concluded with a collage of Miley throwing a tantrum in each of the video's outlandish ensembles.

Miley took to Instagram on Friday ahead of the video's premiere, teasing it as she shared a series of snaps in her costumes.

In one picture she could be seen posing in her baby onesie as she cuddled up to her newest pet pooch Milky, writing: 'Kisses to bb mc fwummm bb milky.'

She's ready! The daughter of Billy Ray Cyrus was clearly excited to show off her hard work - as she had both starred in and directed BB Talk's video

Excited: Miley reposted this collage from the MTV account as she excitedly counted down to her video's debut

Sharing the love: The pet lover doted on her newest dog - Milky - in this heartwarming snap

I don't believe so. That would be very embarrassing for her. And I don't know why she would.
